Section 1.2 Mission

Our mission is to generate, integrate, and disseminate knowledge in a learner-centered environment. We advance domains of knowledge on relationships between information, people, institutions and agencies, language, and technology, evolved from specialized programs in information science, library science, linguistics, computing and technology systems, sciences of learning and cognition, instructional design research, and human performance.

Article II College

Section 2.1 Structure

- 2.1.1 The College is organized into autonomous departments. Each department has its own bylaws by which it establishes and manages:
- its own policies, procedures, standards, and criteria in matters relating to faculty selection and evaluation
 - curriculum development and processing
 - student admission, retention, and exit standards
 - department administration and budgeting
- 2.1.2 The College and departments have centers and labs for research, teaching and development. Each unit that is formally approved by UNT or by the College must have a published statement of mission, goals, and objectives.

2.1.3 The College and departments have business and operations offices. Each has clearly stated purposes and reporting structures to the Dean or Department Chair.

2.1.4 Bylaws, missions, policies, procedures, and standards of all organizational units within the College do not contravene those established by the University.

Section 2.2 Dean

2.2.1 Responsibilities

- a. The Dean is the chief executive officer of the College. He or she reports to the UNT Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs (hereafter "Provost"). The authority of the Dean is exercised with assistance from the Assistant Deans, Associate Deans, and Department Chairs, as well as consultation with the faculty. The Dean is responsible for administrative, educational, research, personnel, budgetary, development, and student affairs of the College, subject to University and College policies.
- b. The Dean's conduct of the office is consistent with the spirit and letter of the UNT Policy Manual. The Dean enforces the spirit and letter of these Bylaws, assuming leadership in developing policies and programs that are consistent with the commitment of the faculty to teaching, scholarship, and service.

Section 2.3 Assistant Deans and Associate Deans

Assistant Deans and Associate Deans assist the Dean by assuming specific areas of responsibility assigned by the Dean in which they represent and support the college faculty in their commitment to teaching, scholarship, and service. The Dean publishes the specific responsibilities assigned to each Assistant Dean and Associate Dean and notifies of any changes at the beginning of each academic year.

Section 2.4 Department Chairs

Department Chairs assist the Dean by assuming specific areas of responsibility assigned to them by the Dean and according to the roles and responsibilities required by the University. They represent and support their department faculty in their commitment to teaching, scholarship, and service.

Section 2.5 Administrative Appointments

2.5.1 Dean

Selection of the Dean conforms with University guidelines that apply to selection of all deans. However, it is the philosophy of this document that College faculty and staff participate in this process and that the final choice is acceptable to a majority of the College.

In the temporary absence of the Dean, the Dean designates an Acting Dean with the Provost's approval. If a Dean's position is vacant, the Provost appoints an Interim Dean. The term of each appointment is set by the Provost in consultation with the appointee.

2.5.2 Dean's Appointees

Assistant Deans, Associate Deans, and Department Chairs are selected as follows:

- a. A search committee of elected representatives of the faculty and staff is established.
- b. For an external search, at least one search committee member should be from a different UNT college for an Assistant/Associate Dean or different COI department for a Chair.
- c. For an internal search, the committee recommends to the Dean at least one nominee chosen from the full-time tenured faculty. Each nominee must be accepted by a majority of faculty members in the Department for a Chair, or by a majority of the search committee vote for Assistant/Associate Dean, prior to being sent to the Dean.
- d. The Dean appoints an individual from the list of nominees recommended by the search committee for an initial term of up to four years. This appointment is renewable by the Dean, who takes into consideration the recommendation of the faculty.
- e. A Dean's appointee serves at the pleasure of the Dean and faculty. The faculty may submit a recommendation to the Dean to remove a Dean's appointee, based on a two-thirds vote of the faculty.
- f. In the temporary absence of a Dean's appointee, the Dean appoints an interim replacement. The term of each appointment is set by the Dean in consultation with the appointee.
